

Lesson 5: How do Jehovah's Witnesses share their belief in London?

Jehovah's Witnesses are a group of Christians who believe that they have a duty to spread the word of Christianity and get people to come to their Christian meetings. This duty is called evangelism. The way they do this is by standing at busy places like tube stations and handing out leaflets and having conversations.

Do you think this way of spreading the word of Christianity is effective?
