

THE QUEST II (12A)

Director: Danny Wells

Cast: Edward Johnson, Daisy McNeil

Running Time: 128 minutes

When our two heroes Brad and Kate meet in a second-hand bookshop, they set off on a journey that tries to unlock the hidden secrets of Atlantis. However, as in other quests, they soon find themselves up against a host of problems and villains which include their old foe The Dark Lord of Oberon.

In a battle of good v. evil, this sequel serves up a banquet of thrills and spills which helps to bring the cinema screen alive once again.

With the biggest budget in movie history, it is not hard to see where the money was spent. From the opening scene to the closing credits, the audience is blown away by the latest special effects that make the unbelievable believable.

But this is not a film carried along by brilliant visual effects alone. Far from it! The acting is superb and the plot is so exciting that at times it is hard to catch your breath. Grab your popcorn, you're in for a great ride!

Shot in New Zealand and the South Pole, the backdrops to this film are stunning, the lighting fantastic. The costumes and sets are designed to perfection and all of this comes together to help transport you into the world of fantasy with ease.

With the hype about The Quest II being sky high, this film was in danger of falling flat on its face. However, this action-packed adventure has all the signs of being a classic and its quality is there for everyone to be amazed by.

This blockbuster hits your screens on Friday and is a must see. Be sure to buy your tickets early!

Gemma Foster

